HARRY BADGER BURNED BY HIGH VOLTAGE WIRE

Heavy Current Passed Through Body, Causing Unconsciousness

WILL LIKELY RECOVER

Harry Badger was very seriously burned on the back, left side and left arm yesterday at the noon hour when he came in contact with two electric wires carrying 2,200 volts current while working on the roof at Clevenstine's City bakery building. He was given first aid treatment and taken to his home on Bishop street, where he is reported to be resting comfortably and will likely recover.

Mr. Badger had been replacing the tin roof on the building and fell, cutting a gash in the side of his head, above his right ear, and landing across the two wires with such force that one was broken. As the heavy current passed through his body he was rendered unconscious and the plugs blew out in the bakery, the wires being short circuited.

Basil Mott happened to see Mr. Badger's plight and quickly summoned John Hess, one of the Keystone Power Corporation meter readers, who turned off the current and took Mr. Badger from the wires.

MR. PHILIPS IN CHARGE

Formally Elected General Manager of American Lime & Stone Co.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the American Lime & Stone Co., held in Bellefonte on Tuesday morning, Mr. W. R. Philips was formally elected general manager of the company. He succeeds Mr. Irving Warner, who has been a resident of Bellefonte for the past year. Mr. Philips assumed charge of his new duties yesterday. He will occupy the Hugh N. Crider residence on East Linn Street, which he has rented.

After their meeting in Bellefonte, the members of the board of directors went to Union Furnace where they witnessed a gigantic blast at the company's quarry.

Disposed of Rattlesnake.

The rattlesnake which attracted so much attention while on display in the window at the Bush House cigar store was disposed of this week. It refused to eat while in captivity but it quickly fixed a rat when the latter was put in the show case in which the snake was a prisoner. Those who saw the rat placed in the show case say it did not have time to squeal. The rattlesnake struck it almost instantly on one of its hind legs and the deadly poison took effect so quickly that the rat's leg immediately became stiff and it hobbled to a corner on three legs and soon expired.

Car Surplus Increase.

Despite record breaking loading of revenue freight, the number of surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service continues to increase, while no car shortage is being reported anywhere. Surplus freight cars on July 7 totaled 64,067. This was an increase of 431 cars over the number reported on June 30.

President Has Pneumonia.

President Harding was taken ill with pneumonia while at San Francisco last Monday. His condition was critical for two or three days. His physicians now are confident that his recovery is assured. The President was taken ill while on a six weeks speaking tour in the west.

John P. Harris 91.

John P. Harris, Bellefonte's veteran banker and highly respected townsman, will be 91 years old on Sunday and plans are being made to fittingly observe the occasion. Mr. Harris continues to enjoy remarkable health and sticks to his slogan, "Don't worry."

Marriage Licenses.

Register Frank Sasserman has issued the following marriage licenses:

Harry R. Jordan, Mary N. Barnyak,	Woodland Moshannon
LeRoy Smith, Lottie May Mincer,	Jersey Shore Mt. Eagle
James H. Musser, Margaret M. Snavely,	Aaronsburg Spring Mills

Farmers Speed Wheat Plowing.

The farmers have been very busy this week speeding along the plowing of ground for sowing of winter wheat, the rains having put the ground in fine shape. Oats is ripening and will be demanding attention next.

Collision at Lemont.

In a collision at Lemont on Sunday afternoon, a car said to be from Boalsburg was considerably damaged. The occupants escaped injury.

P. O. S. of A. FROLIC

Classy Event in Gentzel's Woods Saturday Evening.

The Bellefonte Camp Patriotic Sons of America and friends will gather in Gentzel's Grove, midway between Zion and Pleasant Gap, on Saturday evening, August 4th, in what they call their "First Annual Frolic" and to which all are invited.

Dancing and a vaudeville show will be the chief attractions. The Odd Fellows Band of Bellefonte and a good orchestra have been engaged to furnish the music. All kinds of refreshments will be served.

Illumination for the frolic will be furnished by Delco Light, for sale by the Electric Supply Company of Bellefonte and State College. Free and ample parking space provided, and all will be welcomed and made comfortable.

Emerick's motor busses will be run to and from the Grove, as follows:

Leave Bellefonte via Axe Mann and Pleasant Gap at 7 and 8 o'clock P. M.

Leave Grove for Bellefonte, via same route at 11 and 12 o'clock P. M.

Single fare from Bellefonte to Grove 25 cents, Axe Mann 15 cents and Pleasant Gap 10 cents.

Conductors Great Record.

Fourteen of the passenger conductors on the Tyrone division have a splendid record of which the officials are justly proud. A combined service of 363 years in the passenger service with but 2 days' discipline on that entire record, and only for a slight infraction of the rules. These conductors with their respective years of service are: W. F. Minary, 42 years; Harry F. Bell, 31 years; William Snyder, 31 years; Benjamin F. Perks, 31 years; Joseph Mallihan, 31 years; James P. Walsh, 29 years; Paul F. Neff, 23 years; H. C. Budd, 22 years; Ira G. Lucas, 21 years; Clarence C. Davidson, 16 years.

Cars Damaged in Collision.

The new Dodge Brothers touring car of Lewis Biddle, local dairyman, and the Chevrolet touring car of George Walker, of Runville, were both damaged considerably in a collision at the right angle turn at Snow Shoe Intersection on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Biddle and family were traveling up Bald Eagle valley, planning to spend the afternoon and evening with friends at Unionville, their former home. Mr. Walker was driving to Bellefonte. The Dodge was pushed to one side of the road and struck a telephone pole. One side of the Chevrolet was stripped. None of the occupants in either car was injured.

Caught Fish in Bald Eagle.

Two brown trout, 17 and 19 inches long; a beautiful rainbow trout 15 inches long that will be mounted; five fall chubs; one sunfish, four large suckers two eels that weighed four and one half pounds, and two catfish, was the catch of H. Thomas, and Miss Harriet Logue, of Clinton County, when they fished on Monday from noon until dark in lower Bald Eagle creek, near the Clinton Country club house.

Woman Injured by Bicycle.

Mrs. Ira Miller was struck by a bicycle ridden by Stanford Hoy while she was crossing the street near her home in Blanchard on Saturday evening and was knocked to the ground. She was taken into her home and a physician summoned who found that her collar bone was fractured and that she had sustained painful bruises. As there are no street lights in Blanchard and there was no light on the bicycle neither the boy nor Mrs. Miller saw each other.

Philipsburg Elks Plan Carnival

The Philipsburg Elks are planning for a big carnival—fair to be held in South Park, September 17 to 22. One of the features will be disposing of three cars—a 7 passenger Cadillac touring, Durant and Ford tourings. The proceeds will be used to make improvements on the home they recently purchased.

Couldn't Stay in Boston.

Apparently Mrs. Alberta Austin, wife of William Austin, colored, who were taken into custody recently for violations of the prohibition laws, is back in jail with her husband. Mrs. Austin was told to go to Boston and remain away from this section after arrangements had been made to settle the previous affair.

Rain Mars Festivals.

Those organizations which had planned for festivals last Friday and Saturday evenings met with disappointment, the rain that was so much appreciated by gardeners and farmers having annullifying effect on the festivals.

STRANGE MEN ACCUSED OF FIGHTING ON BUS

Annoy School Teachers and Attacked Driver, Alleged.

BATTERED YOUNG MAN

Two strangers to Bellefonte—men who came here on a Tarvia truck which was being used in oiling and in connection with making of street repairs—were being looked for by Sheriff Harry Dukeman this week on warrants issued for R. V. Donnelly and J. J. Johnson, each charged with assault and battery. Johnson was placed in jail yesterday.

It is alleged that the strangers got on the Emerick bus, operated by Charles Saxion, and enroute from Lock Haven to Bellefonte on the evening trip on Monday. After reaching the vicinity of St. Paul's near Salona, they picked a quarrel with Glenn A. Miller, it is alleged, and started in to beat him severely. The men were apparently intoxicated and had been guilty of disorderly conduct by making disgusting remarks, it was further alleged, and so rude did they disport themselves that other passengers got out of the bus until the driver was able to oust the two offenders.

They did not seem to like being put off, however, and attempted to board the bus until Saxion used a hammer, pounding their fingers it is said. There were many school teachers, attending the Summer Session at the Central State Normal, on the bus and they became much excited when the strangers caused a free-for-all fight, it was alleged.

It is understood that the men will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

TREE FELL ACROSS ROAD

One of Emerick's Busses Was Nearing Danger Point.

Elmer Rockey, driver of the Emerick bus to State College from Bellefonte on Saturday morning on the first trip, with a number of passengers, had the pleasure and thrill of witnessing an unusual occurrence when a large tree fell across the road about 500 feet ahead of the bus. There was one unpleasant feature, the tree blocked the roadway and delayed traffic for a short time.

Mr. Rockey had ample time to apply the brakes and stop the bus so that none of the occupants was in any danger though all felt impressively how kind Providence had been in having the tree, a sturdy oak, fall without striking the car, as was the experience of two men from Reading near Zion, as told of in last week's issue.

Willard—Badger.

Robert Willard and Miss Ruth Badger, both well known young folks of Bellefonte, were united in marriage at the Reformed church on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt. The groom is a son of Mrs. D. I. Willard and conducts a successful men's wear store on High street. He was among the local boys who served overseas and has been an active member of the Brooks—Doll post and booster of the American Legion. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Badger and has been employed at the First National bank. They were given an early morning joyride over the main streets of town with wedding music accompaniment. They departed on a motor trip in Mr. Willard's car expecting to visit in Harrisburg, Hagerstown, and Cumberland, making the return trip via Pittsburgh. A host of friends join with "The Republican" in wishing them a long and happy married life.

Firemen to Convene in Clearfield.

Great preparations are being made by the committee planning for entertainment of the Central Pennsylvania Volunteer Firemen's convention to be held in Clearfield on August 15 and 16. It is expected that the parade, a feature of the second day's convention, will be unusually large, 43 companies, with their bands, having signed to date. The prizes offered for best bands is expected to bring the finest musical organizations in the district.

Gospel Brush Meeting.

A gospel brush arbor meeting will be held at Zerby station from Aug. 2 to Aug. 12 with Sarah P. Ecroyd, of Hughesville, as evangelist. Miss Alma Budman, of Muncy, will have charge of the music. Services each evening at 8 o'clock. Sunday services at 10 A. M; 2.30 and 7.30 P. M. Good auto parking space is provided. You will receive a welcome.

MUST NOT TRY TO PASS AUTOS NEAR CURVES

Hublersburg Constable Had Two Arraigned for Violating Law.

WATCHING MOTORISTS

State police are not alone in their efforts to break up auto law violations in Centre County, as was clearly brought out at a hearing before J. M. Ketchline, Bellefonte, on Tuesday morning.

Dan Kerns, constable at Hublersburg, made information charging Joseph Weller and Stewart Weller with violating that section of the state automobile law which states:

"The operator of any motor vehicle overtaking another vehicle shall pass such vehicle on the left, but shall not attempt to pass any such vehicle at intersecting highways, or at a sharp turn or curve, or on approaching crest of a hill where a full view of the highway ahead for a distance of 200 feet is obstructed."

In the information made against the Wellers they were charged with attempting to pass another car near Hublersburg less than 200 feet from the crest of a hill near a sharp curve on Sunday. The fine and costs, $12 50, were paid when the motorists discovered they had unintentionally violated the law.

COLLISION AT NARROW BRIDGE

Clintondale Scene of Thrilling Crash on Monday.

Two cars—a Buick and a Haynes touring model—were damaged in a collision on Sunday afternoon at the entrance to the narrow bridge at Clintondale. The Buick, owned by Mrs. Abbie Rockey, of Bellefonte, was damaged so much that it is doubtful whether it will be repaired. The Haynes car, owned by A. C. Kepler, of Pine Grove Mills, was only slightly damaged.

Joe Hoy, of Bellefonte, was driving the Buick car. Mrs. Rockey was not in it, the occupants being 4 young men and 4 young women, all of whom escaped injury. The young folks in the Buick car were taken to the Lock Haven Normal School by passing motorists while those in the Kepler car were taken on to Pine Grove Mills.

The crash occurred at the south entrance to the bridge, it is said, as the Haynes car was being driven from the bridge and as Hoy was approaching.

Two Weeks from Today.

The one big event of the year at Hecla Park will be held just 2 weeks hence, on Aug. 16. The Associated Business Men of Bellefonte will invite the entire county to make merry with them for this one day. There will be amusements of all kinds for everybody including 2 baseball games between all 4 teams from the county league. There will be dancing afternoon and evening, music by the best orchestra in Central Penna. Band concerts morning and afternoon, boating, swimming, games, concessions, quoits, etc.—everything to make the day a real outing for the entire family.

Carl Hetzger Underwent Operation.

Carl Hetzger, of Punxsutawney, driver of the car which wrecked and caused the death of Joseph Atterson, of Punxsutawney, and W. M. Lose, of Milesburg, is still in a serious condition in the Cottage State hospital in Philipsburg, although he is expected to recover. His most serious injury is a fracture of the skull and he underwent an operation on Saturday morning, which it is thought will hasten his recovery.

Centre County Baseball League.

Over $100 was realized for Sam Weaver in a benefit game played at Hecla Park on Sunday afternoon between Hecla and the Elks nine. The latter won the game, 8—0.

Careless With Firearms.

Jacob Heverly, of near Philipsburg, was placed in jail the past week on a charge of recklessly handling and discharging firearms while he was under the influence of intoxicated liquor. He is being held for court in default of bail.

Stover—Meyer Reunion.

The Stover and Meyer families will hold their annual reunion in Winkleblech's woods, 3 miles east of Aaronsburg, on Saturday, Aug. 11.

AUTO RACES LABOR DAY

Speed Kings to Compete for $24,000 at Altoona.

The world's fastest automobile race track will be opened in Altoona on Labor Day when 15 of the most noted drivers will compete in a speed classic for $24,000 in purses.

The huge mile and a quarter board oval has been under construction for months by Jack Prince, builder of the Kansas City bowl and other famous board tracks. The small army of carpenters will rush the work ready for preliminary trials a week before the race.

Officially sanctioned by the A. A. A. as the site for all future Labor Day competition, displacing the abandoned Uniontown track, the speedway will be the last word in scientific construction. One hundred and thirty-two cars of clear pine will be used. The racing floor is being built of straight grain 2x4, laid on edge.

The site of the new speedway has been pronounced by Fred Wagner, starter in every championship auto race since the sport began, as the finest in the country. The bowl rises in the middle of a great level plain, with parking space for thousands of cars inside and outside the structure.

Transportation facilities will care for the crowds without congestion. The Pennsylvania railroad main line passes the gates. The William Penn Highway, Horseshoe Trail and other improved roads lead directly to the site.

Provisions are being made for a crowd of between 65,000 and 75,000 persons at the opening event Sept. 3. Two main grandstands are under construction, with additional seating space to be provided for events that will follow.

POULTRY CULLING

Dates and Schedules for This Year's Demonstrations.

Centre Country poultry culling dates for this year are Aug. 7, 8 and 9. For the past 3 years the Centre County Farm Bureau and the Poultry Extension Department of the Penna. State College have co-operated in giving poultry demonstrations throughout the county.

If you are interested in poultry and have not attended one of these demonstrations, plan to do so this year. Learn to know the good and poor hen, keep the good layer and sell the loafer to the butcher. Her feed is worth more than the eggs she will produce.

The demonstrations will be held as follows:

Tuesday, Aug. 7—10 A. M., W. H. Cummings, Aaronsburg; 2 P. M., W. H. Weaver, west of Madisonburg.

Wednesday, Aug. 8—10 A. M., L. M. Tressler, Bellefonte, Buffalo Run road; 1:30 P. M., Lester Meek, Waddle; 4 P. M., John Stover, State College.

Thursday, Aug. 9—10 A. M., Boyd Williams, Lemont; 2 P. M., Frank Dashem, Tusseyville.

Struck By Broken Bolt.

Russell Schreffler was struck on the forehead by a piece of a bolt which broke in two yesterday morning about 10 o'clock while he was tightening a loose hand-hold on a boiler in the engineering building at State College, where he was employed. The piece cut a deep gash in his forehead and it was necessary to summon a physician to close the wound. No serious results are anticipated and it is thought he will be able to return to work in several days. The injured workman is a married man, having two children, and resides near Lemont.

Annie Sokoloski Jailed Again.

Annie Sokoloski and Sam Safronoff, both of Osceola Mills, were placed in jail last week on information charging each with assault and battery. Mrs. Sokoloski served a term in jail for bootlegging and only recently secured her release. She was conducting a boarding house at the Stine mine strippings near Osceola and, with Safronoff, is alleged to have engaged in a quarrel with others in the boarding house.

Has 14 Prisoners.

Sheriff Dukeman has 14 prisoners in the county jail, a larger number than usual. Three of the prisoners are convicts escaped from Rockview and they are a noisy trio.

Furnished Bail.

Patrick Donohoe, of State College, who was in jail in default of $1,000 bail on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under influence of intoxicating liquor, furnished bail and was released.

John Screpic in Jail.

John Screpic, of Moshannon, was taken into custody and placed in jail on Monday afternoon on information made by Hugh Ward, charging assault and battery.

FARMERS INSPECTION TRIP BRINGS RESULTS

Interested in Promising Fields of Growing Potatoes.

BIG YIELD FORECASTED

More than 250 potato growers of Centre, Huntingdon and Blair counties together with their families and visitors from adjoining counties received inspiration and practical lessons in potato growing on the Central Pennsylvania Potato Tour last Thursday.

The opening gun of the tour was fired by E. L. Nixon, potato specialist of the agricultural extension department, on the farm of John Campbell near Tyrone.

He introduced Campbell who told of his alfalfa-potato rotation plan and explained the need of importing disease free seed. Campbell has a fine patch of ten acres of certified "Russets," one acre of which Nixon predicts will approach 600 bushels if weather conditions are favorable.

The farm of N. N. Miller was the next stop where a large field of "spuds" served as a fine demonstration in the use of fertilizers. A treatment of acid phosphate is proving superior to the same amount of complete fertilizer on this farm. After partaking of lemonade furnished by Miller, the party journeyed on to Milo Campbell's farm in Centre County. Campbell has a fine field of "tubers" grown on a five year rotation field with alfalfa preceding potatoes.

"Generally, I use a hog-potato rotation," explained Campbell, "This means sowing rye and sweet clover after the potatoes are harvested, hogging down the rye the next year, and planting potatoes in the field the following season." Campbell says this method is a great labor saver.

Kepler's grove halted the tourists at noon where basket lunches received primary consideration. The crowd then adjourned to Kepler's 30 acre potato field, one of the largest and best in central Pennsylvania. Short talks by Professor Nixon, N. U. Blanpeid of the State Department of Markets, and Miles Horst of the National Stockman and Farmer, convinced the growers that potato production has great possibilities.

"Production of high quality potatoes, grading them and selling under a trademark is the solution of over-production of potatoes if it ever occurs in Pennsylvania," said Blanpeid. "Proper grading brings a premium of 20 to 50 cents on a bushel at a grading cost of from two to five cents a bushel."

Nixon urged thorough spraying, disease-free seed, proper rotation, and thorough tillage as the best means of lowering production costs per bushel. He pointed to Kepler's field as an excellent example of 1923 potato methods and stated that Kepler need not fear out-of-state competition because of the high quality of product and low production costs.

Kepler has 28 acres of fine Russet potatoes and two acres of early Cobblers which are about ready to market. He believes in regular spraying, disease free seed, and uses a sweet clover-potato rotation with acid phosphate fertilizer. A series of variety testf, fertilizer plots and spraying demonstrations are being carried on by Kepler under the supervision of County Agent Robinson and Professor Nixon. These aroused great interest and brought forth many questions.

The tourists reached the College farms at State College by 4 o'clock, inspected a 25 acre potato field and listened to discussions on leaf roll, varieties, and fertilizers. After wandering over the farm and going through the new beef barn, the visitors departed for their homes.

"One of the best potato tours I was ever on," said Nixon. "Never have I seen such an interested group of farmers eager to learn and practice better potato growing methods." Such a spirit means that Centre County will become a real potato section.

Bridge Work Approved.

The inter-county bridge over Beech Creek was inspected on Friday by the County Commissioners from Centre and Clinton counties and approved. The work was done by H. T. Bilger, of Pleasant Gap, and the improvements were such that the structure looks like new, with a fine block floor, attractive and substantial latticed guards and fresh paint.

Warden Francies Resigns.

John Francies, who recently resigned as warden of the western penitentiary and Rockview prison, has also retired from the position of superintendent of construction at the latter place. He has become a candidate for Clerk of Courts in Allegheny County.

COULD HARDLY DO ANY WORK

Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound This Woman Feels So Well

Keeseville, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. I was so much troubled with female weakness I could hardly do any work. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and read it to my husband. He said, 'You had better try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound', so I bought six bottles, and by taking it I am not troubled as I was. I am gaining strength and getting fleshy. My female troubles have vanished and I have never felt so well. The Liver Pills are the best I ever took. If you think my letter will encourage other sufferers you have my permission to use it as an advertisement."—Mrs. SARAH BLAISE, Box 177, Keeseville, N. Y.

Doing the housework for the average American family is some task, and many women lose their health in so doing. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

What's the Answer?

Accepting the menu card from the waiter, the man looked it over with a manifest lack of enthusiasm. His rubicund face denoted good living in another era. Apparently the card had little on it to attract his attention. But suddenly he gave a decided start. Then he beckoned to the waiter.

"Is this something to eat or to drink?" he inquired.

The waiter leaned over and the patron pointed out an item on the card.

"Ginger schnapps"—such was the wording.

Curse Follows Leopold's Line

Pronounced by Witch Doctor Because of Misrule in the Belgian Congo.

Berlin.—The curse of the Congo witch doctor still works.

Princess Louise, daughter of Leopold of Belgium, "cursed" many years ago because of her royal father's misrule in the Belgian Congo, with its attendant "Congo atrocities," has come to a matrimonial shipwreck—as have all his daughters.

"To the tenth generation you and yours will suffer," cried the infuriated witch doctor, "sorrow and death shall be your share. As our people died your slaves, so shall your people live in sorrow. As my people wept, so shall yours suffer."

That curse, uttered because Belgian commanders, at the alleged behest of Leopold, cut off the hands of Congo natives because they could not gather enough rubber, came true almost as uttered. Death, sorrow, disgrace—everything imaginable has happened to the family and descendants of the bewhiskered king.

The list is long. There was Louise of Tuscany, his daughter—desperately unhappy in her married life. There is Louise, who at the age of sixty-four, has been forced to leave her Hungarian husband, a former captain of Hussars in the army of Francis Joseph.

Witch Doctor Curses Leopold.

To begin at the beginning, Leopold was immensely wealthy, for he was a good business man, though a rather indifferent king and family man. His rubber plantations in the Congo annually netted him a fortune. But the joy was taken out of it all when publicity was given to the horrors perpetrated upon the natives who could not gather the quota of rubber assigned to them by their Belgian slave drivers. It was then the witch doctor pronounced the curse.

Apparently it worked. Leopold and his queen had violent disagreements. His daughter, Stephanie, married Rudolph, crown prince of Austria-Hungary. It was not long before they disagreed and private gossip appeared ready to burst into the flame of public scandal. Rudolph sought distraction elsewhere—with Marie Vetsera, his mother's lady in waiting. The couple went to the prince's hunting lodge at Meyerling—it was evening. A gay party followed and the next day the world was amazed to learn that Rudolph's brains had been crushed out, apparently with a bottle, and that Marie Vetsera had been shot and killed.

The mystery of their deaths was never solved. Innumerable stories and rumors as to how they died have been printed. One, told in a book issued recently in Vienna, appears the most reasonable. The author holds that Rudolph, who was a philanderer, seduced a girl he had met the day of his arrival at Meyerling—the daughter of a forest guard. The father, so the book tells, caught the girl and prince together and killed the prince, not knowing who he was. Then Marie Vetsera ended her life.

Princess Leaves Court.

Stephanie, the widow, and one of the most unpopular princesses in Austria-Hungary, was made so uncomfortable at the court of the Hapsburgs that she returned to her home near Brussels. Her mother had died in the meantime, and Leopold, free to enjoy life, had gone to Paris. There he met a laundress—young, pretty and not averse to the attentions of a wealthy old gentleman.

Out of the strange union of the elderly king and the young and beautiful laundress resulted a tangle which busied the courts of Belgium for many a day. After having two sons by the young lady, now the Baroness Vaughan (one of the sons is dead), the king married her on his deathbed, leaving his enormous fortune to her. The daughters of royal blood contested the will—there was litigation extending over years and then the courts held the Baroness Vaughan entitled to every penny of Leopold's money.

In the meantime Louise had married Geze von Mattachich, a Hungarian noble. For a time they lived happily. Then came near-poverty, the war and—now the princess has followed in the footsteps of her sisters in the line of marital infelicity.

Rewarded for Lending His All to Employer

George Chipchase, a coachman who loaned his savings of $4,000 to his wealthy employer in financial difficulties years ago, is to receive $25,000 in cash and the income of a trust fund of $100,000.

This became known through a letter left by Judge William H. Moore of Prides Crossing, Mass., millionaire manufacturer and horseman, deceased, to his widow.

Young Baron Vaughan has an impediment in his speech. He resembles his royal father greatly. He has a vast fortune. And he is anxious to marry some American girl—he has said so repeatedly. What his fate will be—whether the curse of the Congo will also fall upon him—only time will tell.

Boy Snatches Explosive; Saves 6 in Death Blast

Bend, Ore.—While the lives of six men hung in the balance, nineteen-year-old Charles Branch risked his life to save theirs, snatching a box of burning fuse and high explosives from under the seat of the automobile truck in which his companions were riding.

A moment later he was hurled into the air by the explosion, suffering terrible injuries, but his companions escaped, two with minor hurts, the others unscathed.

Despite the fact that his flesh was pierced in innumerable places by the twisted bits of copper wire and that one eye was virtually torn from its socket, the youth may recover, physicians said.

How the fuse became ignited is uncertain. Branch saw the spark progressing toward the explosives. With opportunity to jump and save himself, he ignored the easy way out. He called to the driver to stop the truck, reached under the seat, grasped the box of explosives and jumped to the ground, his body interposed between the explosives and his companions.

Timber Lands Yield Revenue

Form a Valuable Source for Taxation Purposes, Says U. S. Forest Service.

Washington.—Stating that the continuous use of forest lands will afford permanent development and prosperity for local communities and regions, a report of the United States Forest Service points out that one of the chief benefits of standing forests and forest industries lies in their wealth for purposes of taxation. The present system of timber taxation is unquestionably imperfect, says the report, adding that any future modifications must recognize the basic need for a fair contribution to the public revenue.

In the state of Washington, the report states, data obtained by the forest reserve service indicate an assessed valuation on timber lands of about $100,000,000 and on the lumber industry, aside from timber, of about $50,000,000, a total of $150,000,000 out of a grand total for all property in 1920 of about $1,195,000,000. The total for timber and the lumber industry was under the total amount for improved agricultural land in the state by about one-fourth. The taxes on timber land alone made up about 8 per cent of the total levied for 1921 for all purposes, and on other property invested in lumber manufacture about 3 per cent, making a total of approximately 11 per cent, or in excess of $7,000,000. In some of the heavily timbered western counties the contribution of timber lands alone reached 50 per cent of the total taxes. Additional taxes, it is stated, are paid by dependent wood-using industries and by the large number of people whose livelihood depends directly and indirectly upon the forests.

Similar conditions obtain in Oregon, the report declares.

In 1920, the lumber industry in Washington and Oregon paid in taxes about $1.60 for each thousand feet, board measure, of lumber cut. The cut was nearly 9,000,000,000 board feet, but under intensive forestry it would be possible to grow and harvest 16,000,000,000 board feet or more per year, or nearly twice the 1920 cut. This, the report points out, means an enormous taxable resource which can be made permanent.

Denuded and Timbered Lands.

The report cites examples from widely scattered regions to illustrate the contrast from the standpoint of public revenues between timbered lands and nearby denuded lands of similar character. The average assessment in the western part of Washington on standing timber is in the neighborhood of $26 per acre, on logged-off lands $9.32. One timbered section assessed at approximately $80 per acre adjoins a cut-over section assessed at $2.50 per acre. In New Jersey, the State Forest Park Commissioner estimated that a forest area of 2,000,000 acres was assessed at $4,000,000, but under timber-crop production might be made to return taxes on an assessed valuation of $200,000,000.

The average assessed value of standing pine timber in Louisiana in 1920 was estimated at about $42.50 per acre, says the report, contrasting this with the figure of $5.25 for cut-over lands. In Mississippi it is reported that cut-over land is assessed at $3 to $4 an acre, while standing pine timber is assessed at $6 to $8 per thousand feet, with stands running from 6,000 to 10,000 feet per acre—an equivalent to from $36 to $80 per acre assessed value.

In New Hampshire, says the Forest Service, the contrast is between the tax value of denuded land and that of second growth. Cut-over timber land, if fairly well located, is generally assessed at about $4 per acre, it is stated; on the sides of mountains assessments go as low as $1 an acre. A forty-acre tract of second growth pine saw timber about fifty years old, containing 750,000 feet, board measure, is assessed at $6,000. On a $4 valuation, it is pointed out, this land would pay a little under 10 cents per acre in taxes if cut over; it now pays $3.66, or over thirty-six times as much.

Large Employment to Labor.

"Abundant standing timber affords large employment to labor. In 1919 the Industrial Insurance commission of Washington reported that the lumber industry paid 40 per cent of the total pay roll of the state for hazardous occupations, aggregating $227,995,862. It is estimated that in excess of 15,000 men were required by the railroads to handle the lumber output of Washington and Oregon. It is also estimated that upward of 10,000 sailors, longshoremen, stevedores and others were employed in the water transportation of lumber. A total of 60,088 additional persons are engaged in the lumber industry. A large percentage of the state's total population of about 1,350,000 was directly dependent upon the forests for a livelihood in 1919.

"Timber is also an important source of railroad traffic. The annual reports of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Oregon & Washington, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroads for the year 1920, on file with the Public Service commission at Olympia, show that of the slightly less than 21,000,000 tons of traffic originating in Washington nearly 13,500,000 were products of the forests. Under intensive timber cropping Washington could grow on its present forest area from 1,000,000,000 to 2,000,000,000 board feet per year more than its sawmills cut in 1920.

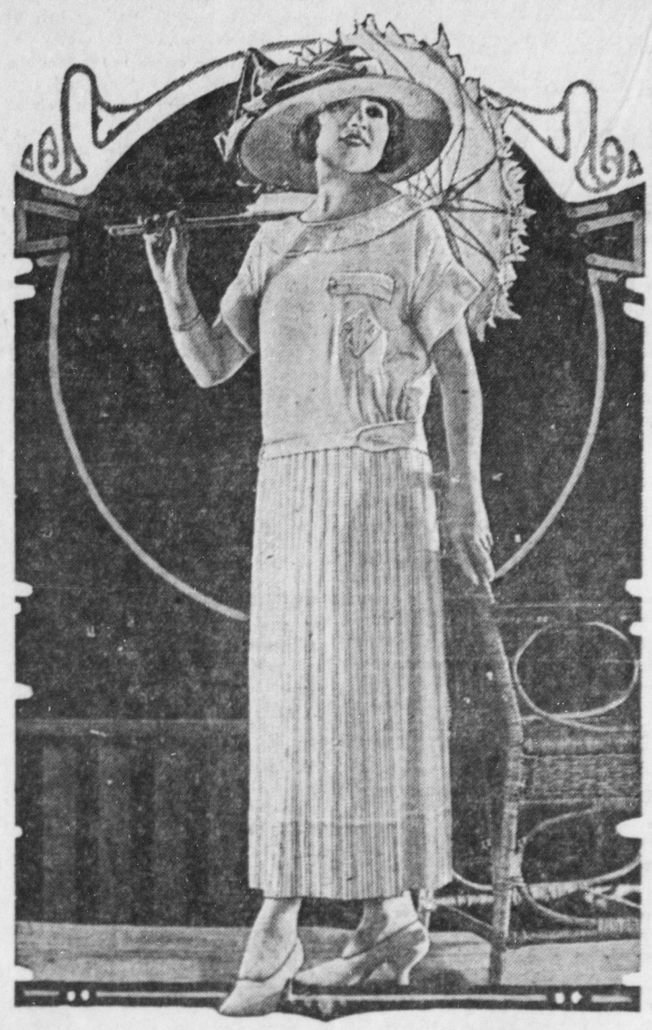
All-White Costume Popular; Like Knitted Bathing Suits

THE cool charm of the all-white costume for summer wear occupies so solid a place in the affections of womankind that it is doubtful if its vogue will ever be successfully challenged by colors, no matter how attractive they may be. In sports things color has made rapid advances in recent seasons, but even in this field white linen or white wool still occupies first place, and for dress wear the mode has produced nothing of greater charm and utility than the all-white outfit.



COOL LOOKING SLIP-OVER FROCK

White crepe is used in making the delightfully cool-looking slip-over frock pictured above. This combines the plaited skirt and plain waist that have been featured in current fashions and has the characteristic straight lines of the mode. The round neck and short kimono sleeves are finished with a deep ruffle of the same material. Just below the pocket is a little embroidered monogram in bright colors. This is a little flair of fashion that has caught on tremendously.

A great number of the all-white outfits recently brought out are featuring white linen in tailored effects. All sorts of knitted materials are shown and in some instances these have an applique design in white or black braid. In linen, one very smart model has a high standing collar and a row of huge linen buttons down one side of the frock. The lighter qualities of linen are being extensively used in children's frocks.

KNITTED BATHING SUIT

"Mother, may I go out to swim? Yes, my child, but don't go near the water." This may or may not have been a parent's philosophy in ye olden time, but at any rate we are all familiar with the quotation and it contrasts the sentiment of the modern mother whose solicitude trends to providing for the child the best the world offers in the way of equipment which shall serve as an incentive and add to the comfort, joy and health-giving qualities derived from water sports, sea bathing and beach recreation.

One of the first objects of careful selection by a doting mother for her growing girl is the bathing suit. Attractive appearance is not its only consideration, but it must measure up to standard in the more practical qualities as well. The manufacture of the knitted bathing suit has especially been brought to a fine point.

In purchasing a knitted bathing suit (and most everyone prefers the knitted kind) there are certain features which distinguish it from the ordinary garment. For instance, according to the standard of par excellence a quality bathing suit must be knitted of high-grade all wool, so as to insure its being non-chilling, non-clinging and it should be processed so as to render it non-shrinkable. Then too, for the protection of the tender skin, long skirt and trunks are desirable for the younger girl such as are featured in the handsome swimming suit illustrated herewith. Note that in this girl's perfect fitting bathing suit the neck is purposely designed rather high, and additional comfort is promised in the winged armholes.

Need of Respect for the Law by All

Captain Wesley H. Westbrook, superintendent of the Cook County jail in Chicago is a widely known criminologist who preaches the necessity of respect for the law by all classes—and finds it sadly lacking. He says:

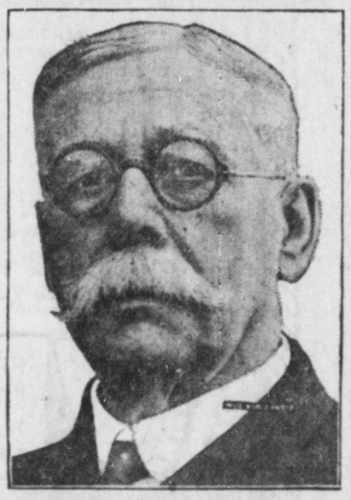
"Seventy-five per cent of the people in jail now believe that with money or influence they can get their bonds reduced, furnish bail, get out on the street and by political manipulation go free at last, no matter what the charge may be. They believe that lack of money and pull will convict them and nothing else.

"With these conditions existing what should we do? What can we do and what will we do to prevent their continuance? Are such things preventable or must we go on with these un-American, unprincipled practices.

"In war, the man who refuses or neglects to do his duty is marked and made to suffer. If we took the same attitude toward those who want special privileges as we took toward the 'slacker' in war times, we would go a long way toward abolishing crime.

"Civilization cannot exist without law. Law is useless unless actively effective. The great agency which makes laws effective in a republic, is respect for law by every one. There now exists in this country the need to enforce respect for the law."

Good News for National Park Visitors



Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, who has been in the senate since 1890, is chairman of the senate committee on appropriations, who holds the Congressional Medal of Honor and is father-in-law of General Pershing, is possibly the most distinguished member of a congressional committee which has delighted the thousands interested in Rocky Mountain National park by promising the improvement of the Fall River road through that most popular of all the public playgrounds. This automobile highway climbs up from Estes park (7,500 feet elevation), crosses the Colorado Continental Divide at 12,000 feet, and descends to the Colorado River valley (8,000). Globe trotters say there is nothing like it in all the world. It is now a one-way road with turnouts.

This congressional committee has made an "inspection and information tour" this summer to Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, Alaska and Mount Rainier, Glacier, Yellowstone and Rocky Mountain National parks. In Rocky Mountain the committee drove up over the Fall River road—in part through snowbanks—and was so impressed that it planned to push in the next congress a bill appropriating $280,000 for widening it to a two-way road.

The government is to advance the money for immediate use (in 1924). A season pass over the road to be issued for $1 to each automobile owner, the revenue to go into a sinking fund. This does not apply to Rocky Mountain National park, to which entrance is free, but only to the Fall River road.

Bok's $100,000 "American Peace Award"

One hundred thousand dollars awaits the American who can conceive the most practicable plan by which the United States may co-operate with other nations to achieve and to preserve world peace. This sum has been given for the purpose by Edward W. Bok of Philadelphia, former editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, who retired several years ago to devote himself to welfare work.

The prize is to be known as the American peace award. It is to be given in two parts of $50,000 each. The first $50,000 will be paid for the idea itself; the second will be given when the practicability of the idea is demonstrated, either through its adoption by the United States senate or because a sufficient popular response indorses it.

A jury of award will bestow the $100,000. The exact conditions under which it may be gained and selection of the jury of award has been left to a policy committee appointed by Mr. Bok.

Miss Esther Everett Lape is head of the policy committee with the following associates: John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain; Federal Judge Learned Hand, William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists; Nathan L. Miller, former governor of New York; Melville E. Stone, counselor of the Associated Press; Henry L. Stimson, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, Mrs. Ogden Reid, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip.

The treasurer of the policy committee is Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr.

Mystery of the Eel Solved at Last

Every now and then this summer some angler will hook a big eel and his capture will set all the brotherhood to gossiping about the "eel mystery." For the life history of the eel has been a mystery always until recent discoveries by Dr. Johannes Schmidt, a Danish zoologist, after years of investigation.

He has now found out that the larvae of both the American and the European eel are born in the spring at the bottom of the Atlantic, at a depth of about 1,000 feet, on a limited tract about 500 miles northeast of the Leeward islands. During the first summer of their lives the larvae move up toward the surface, and in their second summer they start to migrate respectively toward the American and European coasts. By some marvelous instinct each species unerringly goes in the right direction.

In both cases, after their arrival in inland fresh water, they remain there until they become mature, at about the age of six years, when they return seaward in winter, traveling about ten miles nightly, until they reach their old breeding grounds, where, in their turn they propagate new larvae, and where they remain for the rest of their lives.

THRIFTY HOUSEKEEPERS PLAN TO CAN OR DRY SURPLUS VEGETABLES

Drying Extra Garden Materials for Winter Use.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

As soon as the home garden begins to produce a surplus over the daily table needs, the thrifty housekeeper plans to can or dry the extra materials for winter use.

The United States Department of Agriculture suggests that vegetables and fruits can be dried in an oven, in trays or racks over the kitchen stove, or in a specially constructed drier, of such a size that it can be placed on the top of an ordinary wood or coal range, or over a kerosene stove. These driers hold a series of small trays on which fruits or vegetables are placed after being prepared for drying. Portable outdoor evaporators are especially convenient when it is desired to dry as much as ten bushels of fruit or vegetables per day. They are usually constructed of wood except the parts in direct contact with the heater. The homemade dry kiln used in some sections of the country can be cheaply and easily made of brick and stone.

A very satisfactory drier can be made of lath (preferably cypress, poplar or other nonresinous wood), wire screens and cotton canvas or heavy unbleached muslin. It can be used over a wood stove, furnace, oil or gas stove if care is taken to see that it does not become overheated and catch fire, and can be made in size to suit the particular source of heat used. It can be made to take apart and pack flat.

Material Needed.

A five-tray drier with bottom 24 by 11½ inches can be made from the following material:

Uprights, 4 pieces of lath, 1¼ by ⅝ inch, 23 inches long. Cleats or shelves, 10 pieces of lath 1¼ by ⅝ inch, 24 inches long. Side braces, 4 pieces of lath 1¼ by ⅝ inch, 24 inches long. Side pieces for trays, 10 pieces lath 1¼ by ⅝ inch, 21 inches long. End pieces for trays, 10 pieces of lath 1¼ by ⅝ inch, 10 inches long. Galvanized wire screen or netting, 5 pieces 21½ by 11¼ inches, (10 meshes to 1 inch of ⅛ inch mesh). Canvas or muslin, 7 feet long and 24 inches wide. Brads, 1½ and 1 inch lengths. Double-pointed tacks. Sheet iron (preferably galvanized), 1 piece 18 by 7 inches.

In case the drier is made rigid it will require in addition:

End braces, 4 pieces of lath 1¼ by ⅝ inch, 12½ inches long. ⅛ inch galvanized wire, 2 pieces 12 inches long.

In case the drier is made to fold it will require:

Iron rods, 4 pieces 13½ inches long, ¼ inch diameter, with 2½ inch thread cut from each end and each end supplied with 2 nuts.

The uprights are marked off from the one end as follows: 5, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3, 3 inches. The ends of the cleats or shelves are cut to fit the uprights and nailed on. The first one 8 inches from the bottom of the uprights and then one additional for every 3 inches. The braces are then put on at the upper outside edge and 5 inches from the bottom. Through these, if the drier is to be folded, drill four holes 3-16-inch in diameter, if the iron rods are ¼ inch. In the upper brace drill the holes 3 inches from each end. In the lower brace drill them 6 inches from each end. Through these holes put the iron rod so one of the nuts is on the inside and the other on the outside.

Rods Hold Sides Rigid.

These rods hold the sides rigidly together, but as they can be quickly removed the drier can be packed flat. On the two lower iron rods place a piece of sheet iron about 18 by 7 inches. This will act as a radiator, and at the same time serve as a protection against the direct heat of the flame when the drier is put over an oil or gas stove. When used over an ordinary stove the piece of sheet iron may be removed.

In case the drier is to be made without the iron rods, the end braces are nailed in place, two at each end, fitting with the braces on the sides. In that case holes are drilled, as when the drier is to be taken apart, 6 inches from each end in the two lower side braces. A piece of heavy wire is put through each pair of holes and on these the sheet iron is placed when used over a flame.

Around the bottom of each of the four uprights place a piece of sheet tin to prevent scorching the wood when the drier is placed on top of an ordinary stove or over a furnace. An eight-penny nail driven halfway into the lower end of each of the uprights can take the place of the tin as support for the drier.

The canvas is next put on so is it about 2 inches from the lower end of the uprights. Tack the one end of the canvas to the front side of one of the uprights and tack along the sides. It is important to tack it once or twice on each of the shelf cleats in order to keep the canvas close to the sides so as to prevent the loss of heat which will take place if a space is left between the canvas and the cleats. The extra width of canvas is allowed to overlap top. The canvas is fastened on both sides, and holes are cut for the iron rods to pass through if the drier is made to fold. The extra length of canvas is put around the front end and fastened with a pin or with small clasps.

Extra Width of Canvas.

The extra width of canvas extending over the top part of drier can be folded, stretched tightly in the corners, and fastened with pins, clasps or buttons so as to hold the canvas tight and prevent it from dropping down on the upper tray, and still leaving an opening in the center for the passage of the heated-air current. If preferred, and for the type of drier that is not to be taken down, a single piece of canvas can be nailed over the top and a square hole cut in the center about 17 by 8 inches. This opening may be covered with coarse mosquito netting to keep out insects.

The trays are nailed together so that they are 10 inches wide, inside measure. All edges of the pieces of the wire screen are bent over one-fourth inch and hammered flat, so the edges will not be rough. The screen is then tacked to the bottom of the trays. The trays are placed on the shelves or cleats in such a way that they may be either pushed to the back of the drier or left at the front.

WARM WEATHER MEAT SALADS

Excellent for Either Lunch or Supper and Any Left Over Material May Be Utilized.

It is often a problem to serve foods which will appeal to appetites made fickle by hot weather. Meat salads are excellent for either lunch or supper, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture. Any cold left-over meat (beef, pork, veal or lamb) may be used. Cut the meat into cubes and mix it with diced cucumber, celery, radishes or onion, or any preferred combination of these crisp vegetables, season well, and if desired, mix with a little oil and vinegar. Serve with lettuce or shredded cabbage and mayonnaise or boiled dressing.

WHY TAKE LAXATIVES?

Discovery by Science Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication.

As Nujol is not a medicine or laxative, it cannot gripe and, like pure water, it is harmless and pleasant.

REAL BOY SCOUT EXPERIENCE

Youth Overcome by Gas is Rescued by Plucky Companion.

It has always been contended that there was more pluck, grit, perseverance and bravery in a red-headed youngster than any of another color, and people living in the vicinity of the Allen Coupler farm, two miles from Shawville, are ready to attest this contention after an occurrence at the Philipsburg Boy Scout camp, located there.

To the fact that young Carrol, of Osceola, is rather small and red-headed just add the further fact that he is a Scout and Irish and it will not be hard to understand why he took his life in his own hands to save another.

On the Coupler farm there is an old, abandoned well, 35 feet deep, which was partly filled up about 14 years ago by George Lingle, about five feet of dirt and debris being dumped into the well. It was the purpose of the Scouts to clean out this old well, and it is said that every precaution for safety was taken, even to the extent of taking three different flame tests for any gas which might be in the well, and after the men in charge were satisfied that all was safe, Frank Warner, aged 15, of Philipsburg, who acts as assistant cook at the Scout camp descended into the well and went to work. Warner is a member of the recently organized Chapter of DeMolay of this place. He had sent up four or five bucketsful of debris when those on top of the ground were startled to hear a shriek of unusual noise from down the well, and one who happened to be looking down at the time saw young Warner double up and topple over on the rocks in the bottom of the hole. He fell over after having dislodged quite a huge rock, which it is supposed, set free a large pocket of a deadly gas of some description.

Consternation reigned about the top of the well for a few minutes as those of more experience realized that any person going down into the well could reasonably expect to suffer a like fate. The shock of having so serious an accident come to one of his charges was too much for Scoutmaster Greenfield, who fainted, but his son, who is an able Scout and acts as Assistant Scoutmaster at the camp, volunteered to descend into the well. He did not get all the way down, however, as the gas forced him to come back to the top.

It was at this juncture that Scout Carrol, the red-headed little youngster from Osceola, 14 years old, begged of the Scoutmaster that his eyes and nose be bandaged with cloths that he had and that he be permitted to go down the well to save his chum, Warner.

The cloths were bandaged on the boy's face in accordance with his wishes and the plucky little fellow was lowered to the bottom of the well where he quickly tied ropes to young Warner and he was hoisted to the surface. When the brave little Scout Carroll was brought to the surface, he too was overcome with the fumes, but recovered in a couple of minutes to receive the hearty congratulations of his fellows.

Young Warner had been in the well about 15 minutes and absolutely no hope was held for resuscitating him, but those present were very much drilled in first aid rules and practice, so Burton Lingle, son of Warren Lingle, was quickly on the job with his Ford car and young Warren was loaded into it and taken to the Clearfield hospital.

When the trip was started, it was hard indeed to think there was any life in the boy and it was not until they reached the hospital that he showed any signs of recovery. Physicians declared that the boy owes his life, first to the bravery of young Carrol and second to the record making speed of young Lingle to the hospital. He drove the twelve miles in eighteen minutes and it is believed that the bouncing of the car at this high speed and the rush of air had a great deal to do with reviving Warner.

OVER THE COUNTY.

James Foust, of Spring Mills, was thrown and his motorcycle was badly damaged, when it collided with a Dodge car driven by T. A. Hosterman, of Centre Hall, the collision occurring on the road between Old Fort and Spring Mills.

Open air church services held in Ertel's woods at Coburn were attended by more than 800 persons on a recent Sunday. The Sunday School services had 355 members and the afternoon worship, when Rev. A. A. Winter spoke on "Jesus and Peter in Comparison," the crowd was estimated at 500 persons.

Hastings Hassenplug, of Rebersburg, won't forget in a long time his recent experience when he went with a party into the Seven mountains to pick huckleberries. Hassenplug got lost when he wandered away from the party and spent the night alone in the forests, a searching party finding him the following day.

Walter Garrity has been thinking these days about a prank which lightning recently played at his famed resort in the Seven mountains. He was near the kitchen stove as the electrical storm was at its height, and a bolt of lightning struck the cabin and pranced about the kitchen, tearing a hole in the floor that measured 7 inches in circumference. Mr. Garrity's thoughts are mostly about where he would be if he had not removed a pair of heavy hobnailed shoes, which were wet and which he had placed under the stove, wearing temporarily a pair of gums. The heavy shoes were torn to pieces by the bolt of lightning.

Rain Pleased Farmers.

The heavy rainfall all of last Friday night and Saturday morning was the first one in a long time that soaked into the ground well and it will do the corn and late garden crops much good. Naturally it pleased the farmers who now anticipate a fair yield of corn and a big crop of late potatoes.

Samuel J. Thomas Dead.

Samuel J. Thomas, a lifelong resident of Bellefonte and vicinity, passed away last Thursday evening in the Bellefonte hospital from complications. Mr. Thomas had been a patient in the hospital only about five days, apparently responding to treatment at first but becoming decidedly worse on Thursday. He was 64 years old and a son of John and Christine Thomas, both deceased. His wife died a number of years ago and Mr. Thomas resided with his daughter on Fairview street. Surviving are three children: Frank P., of Hollidaysburg; George W. and Mrs. B. W. Neff, Bellefonte; twenty grand-children and the following brothers and sisters: Dave, of Stormstown; Arthur, Waddle; William, Austin, Pa.; John, Port Matilda; Daniel, Kansas; Mrs. Sue Irvin, Bellefonte; Mrs. Stewart Weston, Bellwood. Mr. Thomas was a member of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks and of the United Brethren church. For twelve years he was a valued employe of the American Lime and Stone company. Funeral services were held from the United Brethren church on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, his pastor, Rev. Frank B. Hackett, being in charge. Burial was made in the Union cemetery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ellen Kane Dead.

Early last Thursday morning death claimed one of the oldest residents of Centre County in Mrs. Elizabeth Ellen Kane, who resided with her son, Peter Kane, near the fair grounds. Mrs. Kane was born in Nittany valley, a daughter of Peter and Mary Haupt Solt. She was 92 years old and enjoyed good health until about a week before she passed away. She was the widow of William Kane and they formerly resided in Buffalo Run valley. Her husband has been dead many years. Surviving are 4 children: Peter, Edward and Mrs. John Emel, of Bellefonte; George Kane, of Harrisburg; one brother, Frederick Solt, of Frederick, Md.; one half-sister and three half-brothers: Mrs. Levi A. Walker, James and Conrad Solt, of Williamsport; Cyrus Solt, of Bellefonte. Funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon from the Peter Kane home and burial was made in Curtin cemetery.

George Welty Dead.

George Welty, for many years a resident of Buffalo Run, near Scotia, died at his late home in Montoursville, on Friday from complications. The deceased was born in Liberty, Tioga County, on April 10, 1851, a son of Philip and Sophia Welty, both deceased. Most of his life was spent in Centre County but he moved from here to Hyner some years ago, later going into a pretty and cosy home in Montoursville. Surviving are his widow and two children: John, Montoursville, and Mrs. Cora Puff, Hyner; one brother, Reuben Welty, of Bellefonte, and the following sisters: Mrs. Emma Seitz and Mrs. Jane Seitz, Youngstown, Ohio; Mrs. Alice Biddle, Beech Creek; Mrs. Ella Barlet, State College; Mrs. Annie Garbrick, Mill Hall and Mrs. Blanche Houser, Bellefonte. Funeral services were conducted at Montoursville and the body brought here on Monday afternoon for interment in the Union cemetery.

Mrs. Regina L. Doll Dead.

Mrs. Regina Lehman Doll, one of Bellefonte's highly respected residents, died on Saturday morning. Deceased was born in Baden, Germany, Sept. 6, 1849. She married Louis Doll on Aug. 1, 1869. Mr. Doll passed away a number of years ago, but his widow continued to maintain the home on Bishop St. Surviving are the following children: William, of Bellefonte; George, Mrs. Rose Parl and Frank, at home; Louis, Franklin; Edward, Altoona; and one grandson, Basil, at home. The deceased was an ardent member of St. John's Catholic church. Burial was made in the Catholic cemetery.

Funeral of Mother and Babe.

Unusually sad was the funeral on Monday afternoon of Mrs. George B. Holt, of Filmore, and her babe, the double funeral being held at the home at 1 o'clock and burial made in the Advent cemetery near Milesburg. Mrs. Holt was taken to the hospital on last Thursday and the babe was born Friday afternoon. The mother lingered until Saturday morning at 2 o'clock. Deceased was a daughter of Mrs. Vietta Spicer, of Runville, where she was born on Feb. 5, 1885, her maiden name being Minnie Spicer. She was twice married, her first husband being Clark Walters. Surviving are her mother; her husband; the following children: William, Edward, Madeline and John Walters, Gladys, Elizabeth and George Holt, all at home; the following brothers and sisters: Thomas Spicer, of Waddle; Mrs. E. S. Bennett and Mrs. Charles Rodgers, of Runville; Edward and Toner, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Belle Johnson, Renovo; Roland, of near Bellefonte; Mrs. Gordon Fox and Clarence, of Philipsburg.

Mrs. E. P. Lucas Dead.

Mrs. Nora Isabel Lucas, wife of E. P. Lucas, of Unionville, died suddenly on Friday morning at 6:30 o'clock at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Coldwell, of Altoona, with whom she was visiting. Deceased had not been in good health for several weeks. She was a native of Centre County and was born April 15, 1874. Surviving are her husband; three sons and six daughters: Mrs. F. R. Coldwell and Miss Emma Lucas, of Altoona; Myra, Hannah, Erma, Florence, William, Lloyd and Elmer, all at home; two brothers Henry Spotts, of Port Matilda, and William Spotts, of State College. The remains were brought to Unionville for burial.

Mrs. Isabelle R. Barr Dead.

Mrs. Isabelle Resides Barr, widow of Lieut. Samuel L. Barr, died at the home of her son, A. M. Barr, on Pine street, early yesterday morning. She was born at Hunters Park, a daughter of Philip and Hannah Resides and was past 80 years old. Beside the one son, there survive four grand-children—Mrs. Mildred Coble, Bella, Esther and Hazel Johnston, of Bellefonte—and the following brothers and sisters: William and Henry Resides, Bellefonte; Mrs. Mary Sowers, Milesburg; Mrs. Ellis Sellers, Pittsburgh. Funeral services will be held in the M. E. church on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. E. E. McKelvey. Interment in Union cemetery.

John W. Biddle Dead.

John W. Biddle died on Saturday morning at the home of his son Charles, near Filmore, with whom he had been residing since the death of his wife, a year ago last September. He had resided for many years in Unionville. Death was due to infirmities, his age being 79 last April. Surviving are the following children: Mrs. Alice Morris, Canton, O.; Mrs. Celia Stiver and Mrs. Mary Showers, State College; Mrs. Esther Solt, Axe Mann; Mrs. Nora Spicer and Charles, Filmore; Mrs. James Stine and Wesley, Unionville, and Lewis Biddle, near Bellefonte. Funeral services were held on Tuesday and burial made in the Upper cemetery at Unionville.

James Knox Dead.

James Knox, one of the older residents of Buffalo Run valley, died Monday evening at the homestead farm at Hunters Park. He was past 80 years old. His wife died about 5 years ago. Surviving are one son, Henry, and two daughters, Lula and Damarius, all at home. The deceased was a veteran of the Civil war. Funeral services were held this morning and burial made in Myers cemetery.

June Traffic Largest.

During the four weeks of June 4,045,012 cars were loaded with revenue freight, according to compilations just made by the Bureau of Railway Economics. This was the largest traffic for any one month in the history of the railroads. Loading of merchandise and miscellaneous freight during the four weeks in June totaled 2,348,734 cars. Forest products loading totaled 311,755 cars and ore loading 318,222 cars. Loading of grain and grain products amounted to 139,378 cars. Live stock loading totaled 121,114 cars. Coal loading for the four weeks in June this year amounted to 746,265 cars, compared with 376,323 cars during the four weeks' period in 1922, when, however, coal loading was curtailed by the miners' strike.

Pine Grove Mlils.

Oats harvest is on and the katy-dids are here and the housewives are at their knitting.

J. A. Fortney, of Bellwood, spent Sunday with his family here.

Miss Edith Dale, of Bellefonte, spent the early part of the week among friends on the Branch as part of her vacation.

J. O. Campbell and wife, in their new Dodge sedan, were in town on Saturday evening on a shopping tour.

Mrs. Julia Gates was a caller with the Goheen sisters at Rock Springs Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Schneider, of Tyrone, were Sunday visitors at the Charles Gates home at Pennsylvania Furnace.

Miss Eliza Campbell, of the Buckeye State, is spending her vacation with her uncles and aunts,at the McCracken home in the Glades.

Our butcher, Paul Coxey, has quit the job and flitted to State College.

Dr. Frank Brady and lady friend, Miss Grace Jenkins, have been here for a week's outing. The doctor made himself useful at the end of a pitchfork, gathering in the sheaves on the old home farm.

Mrs. Beckie Davis had a fall down steps recently, spraining her left ankle, and is quite lame.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, while visiting the home of her son, W. A., near Madisonburg, last week, fell down a flight of cellar stairs, tearing the ligaments in her right ankle and sustaining many ugly and painful bruises.

Some wretch shot and killed Wm. R. Dale's faithful watch dog recently so as to have free access to his chicken ranch.

Misses Sue and Sadie Dannley spent last week among friends in Millheim and report a most delightful time.

Miss Lula Stover, of Altoona, is spending her outing among relatives in and about town this week.

Chas. Thomas and wife, of New Castle, in their King car, were callers in town last week, accompanied by Mrs. G. W. Ward and Mrs. W. M. Woomer for a cross country trip to spend a week at Asbury Park, N. J., and other places of interest on the way. They expect to be away 2 weeks.

Our ball team took on new honors Saturday afternoon on the Andrews field. Though the Baileyville team imported a catcher and pitcher from Tyrone, when the smoke cleared away the score stood 7—3 in favor of the Pine Grove boys. In the evening a large crowd gathered on the Baileyville picnic grounds to witness an interesting game by the Tadpole team and the Marengo nine. The score was 7—3 in favor of the latter.

Postmaster W. H. Glenn spent Tuesday in Huntingdon in quest of news or reports for road making on the mountain road. He was accompanied by his wife for a little outing.

The sisters of Mrs. Condo have been summoned to nurse mother Mary Brown at her home on East Main St. Her condition is not much improved.

The installation of Rev. John S. English, the newly elected pastor of the Lutheran church, took place last Sunday at 10:30 A. M. Dr. Chas. T. Aikens, president of Susquehanna University was in charge. The edifice was tastefully and beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and roses for the occasion. Basing his remarks on apostle Paul's instructions to Timothy, giving some wholesome advice to the pastor. At 7 P. M. the edifice was crowded to hear Rev. Wilson Potter Ard, pastor of the Bellefonte Lutheran church, and one of our boys. In strong language he reminded the church members of their duty and fidelity toward their pastor. The charge is composed of 3 churches, Gatesburg, Pine Hall and Pine Grove Mills.

Fire destroyed the largest barn in Spruce Creek valley. It was owned by Will Wertz, of Graysville, and known as the Spruce Creek clubhouse farm. Last Friday at 10 o'clock while unloading wheat with a sheaf elevator of which the lower part heated, setting fire to the block in the floor. The first intimation of fire was when the flames spread rapidly over the wagon. The man on the load gave the alarm, jumping to the floor cut the harness on the team and with rapidity saved the team and had it not been for a ladder all in the mow would have perished. A woman was badly burned; 20 loads of wheat and hay crop, together with all machinery except binder and wagon was saved. Loss was covered by insurance and will rebuild at once; will put a sawmill on his timber nearby. The new structure will be 70 feet smaller.

Death of a little girl baby, daughter of Otis and Elsie Corl, passed away at their home near Pine Hall last Friday evening at 9 o'clock, after 4 days illness, aged 10 years. Several days previous the little pet ran a splinter in her big toe. It was extracted and she suffered much pain. Shortly before she became ill a physician was summoned and found a fully developed case of tetanus from which she died 3 days later in terrible agony. She was a great favorite in the county, being a sweet singer for one so young in years. Besides her parents,3 sisters and 6 brothers survive. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, interment being made in the Pine Hall cemetery. Services in the Reformed church Her pastor, Rev. S. C. Stover, officiated; text, "She is not dead but sleepeth." Members of her Sunday school class sang beautifully. Floral tributes were profuse.

DEVELOPING BEAVER LAWN

State College is Being Improved by Addition of Many Houses.

More applications for admission by prospective students have been received up to this time than ever before in the history of the College. The rapid growth of State College, with its large number of beautiful and magnificent homes, has not been able to keep pace with the steady growth of the college. The fact is known by all who are familiar with the local conditions.

In the central part of the town prices have increased very rapidly as the demand for business locations has grown. Many residences have been sold and business buildings erected. This, together with the number of beautiful homes being built in and near State College, has made the question of obtaining desirable home site property within reasonable distance from the centre of the town and the college, a serious one. However, a number of the enterprising business men have practically solved this problem. The firm known as the State Realty Co., of State College, are offering for sale beautiful home sites on the J. D. Keller farm, which was formerly known as the Markle farm. This property is located in the borough limits of State College, joining College Ave., and with Beaver and Foster Aves., two of the finest residential streets of the town, extending through the property.

The State Realty Co. are developing this property into a high-class residential section. A corps of engineers have been busily at work plotting and planning this property into large and attractive home sites, which is highly restricted for a residential section. This property is destined to become the Blue Ribbon residential section of State College.

This property, which will be known as Beaver Lawn,is offered for sale at reasonable prices and on easy terms.

Beaver Lawn will add a great deal to the growth of State College, since many of the residents of the town and vicinity have watched steadily and patiently for the opportunity to secure additional home sites in the fine location.

It is a known fact that real estate in State College and vicinity is a good investment, and for 20 years past has proven to be a good money-making proposition. Some have doubled, trebled and even quadrupled their investments in State College real estate in the past 10 years.

It is the purpose of the State Realty Co. to buy, sell, rent and handle real estate in every form. Persons having real estate for sale, whether developed or undeveloped, or for rent, will find it profitable to consult this firm which for the present is located at 224 E. College Ave., State College, Penna.

Announcements of the development of Beaver Lawn—this new residential property—will be made from time to time in this publication. It is the plan of this organization to offer these choice home sites at very interesting prices, and then to gradually increase them, but those desiring choice locations and interesting prices, should arrange immediately for an appointment to be shown Beaver Lawn, by calling State College, Bell 'phone 256.

NOTICE.

In the matter of the presumed death of Robert S. Fogleman.

In the Court of Common Pleas of Centre County. No. 148 May Term, 1923.

DECREE

And now, to wit, July 2nd, 1923, on due proof being made of the publication of notice in the manner and at the time hereinbefore directed after due consideration of the testimony produced before the Court and the Court being satisfied, does hereby decree that the legal presumption of death of the said Robert S. Fogleman on August 1, 1920, is made out.

The Clerk of this Court is directed to cause to be published for three successive weeks in the "Bellefonte Republican", a newspaper published in the County of Centre; also in the Altoona Mirror, a newspaper published in the City of Altoona, Pennsylvania, that being the place from which the said Robert S. Fogleman was last heard from, a notice of this decree, and that the said Robert S. Fogleman, if alive or any other person for him, is required to produce to this Court within twelve weeks of the date of the last publication of said notice, satisfactory evidence of his being alive.

By the Court,
HENRY C. QUIGLEY,
President Judge

State of Penusylvania,
ss:
County of Centre.

I, Roy Wilkinson, Prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas in and for the County of Centre, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a full, true and correct copy of the Decree so full and complete as the same remains of record before said Court at No. 148 May Term, 1923.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the Court at Bellefonte this 3rd day of July, A. D. 1923.

Roy Wilkinson,
Prothonotary.

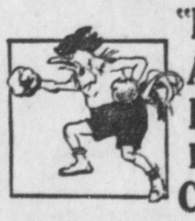
WHO FIRST FELT "LIKE A FIGHTING COCK"?



COCK-FIGHTING was born with the cocks.

But it is only 80 years ago that the first man felt "like a fighting cock!"

Now he has brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, all over the world—all feeling "like a fighting cock!"

It happens this way: A person half sick with bad stomach, dull and heavy headache, takes Beecham's Pills just before going to bed. Immediately the Pills begin to harmonize the digestive and eliminative organs.

Consequently, this person has a good night's sleep and arises in the morning with clear brain, bright eye, keen appetite, and full of energy for work and play.

It is now just 80 years since Beecham's Pills first began correcting disordered stomachs and stirring sluggish livers and bowels to natural activity — and feeling "like a fighting cock" is associated as inseparably with Beecham's Pills, as the pills are with good health.

RULES FOR FLAG OBSERVANCE

National Conference Codifies Regulations for Display of Respect to Colors.

Patriots of the United States at last may pay the flag of the nation full respect, without fear of violation of some phase of flag etiquette, due to the outcome of a national conference called for the purpose of codifying rules for flag observance.

Noting the dissimilitude of practices toward the flag, and the inability to make military observance coincide with that for civilians, the American Legion set out to settle all such questions and succeeded in the purpose by calling together representatives of nearly seventy organizations of various character for the promulgation of certain rules for future flag usage.

The conference was held at Continental hall in Washington. Gathered there were representatives of the army and navy, government agencies, veterans' organizations, patriotic societies, associations for welfare and organized movements for national development. These delegates represented 5,000,000 Americans. The conference was opened by an address by President Harding.

Garland W. Powell, director of the Americanism commission of the Legion, presided and named a committee which formulated a definite code, later to be adopted by the conference.

In addition to settling on the code for flag usage, plans for education in proper flag observance were formed and a program of contemplated legislation outlined, which would fix by statute certain rules for display of the national emblem. A point which will be stressed along this line will be the setting aside of June 14 as a day of appropriate ceremony and respect to the flag in every state. Another suggested measure calls for the flying of the flag from every main administration building and at every polling place in the nation. Schools would fly the flag during school hours, if a recommendation of the committee is followed, while general laws relating to punitive measures for misuse of the flag also are urged.

The code suggested by the committee contains many suggestions for usage of the emblem, with certain "don'ts" as violations.

The flag should be displayed from sunrise to sunset, only between such hours as designated by proper authority on national and state holidays, or on historic or special occasions. The flag should always be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously. When carried in procession with another flag the place of the flag of the United States is on the right, that is, the flag's own right or when there is a line of other flags, the United States flag should be in front of the center of the line.

If displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs the United States flag should be on the right and its staff in front of the other flag. When flags are grouped or displayed from staffs the United States flag should be in the center or at the highest point of the group. The United States flag should fly from the peak of a halyard on which flags of states, cities or societies are flown. If such flags are hoisted the United States flag should always be raised first. No flag or pennant should be placed above or to the right of the emblem. In flying flags of two or more nations the flags should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and the flags of equal size.

A common misuse of the flag takes place when the staff projects horizontally or at an angle from window sills, balcony or front of buildings. The union of the flag should go clear to the head of the staff unless at half staff. If the emblem is displayed other than from a staff it should be hung flat. If displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's right, that is, to the observer's left. If hung from the middle of a street, as between buildings, the union should be to the north in an east and west street or to the east in a north and south street.

When the flag is used on a speakers' platform it should be displayed above and behind the speaker. It should never be used to cover the speaker's desk or to drape over the front of the platform. If used in unveiling a monument the flag should not be allowed to fall to the ground, but should be borne aloft to wave out. If used to cover a casket the flag should be placed so that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground. The casket should be carried feet first.

If the condition of the flag is such that it is no longer fit for display it should be destroyed as a whole by burning or similar method.

The emblem should never be used as drapery, bunting being preferred for this purpose. It should never be used as a ceiling, part of a costume or uniform, embroidered on handkerchiefs or pillows, printed on envelopes, paper napkins or boxes.

"SIOUX CITY IN WORLD WAR"

Historian of Monahan Post Is Praised as Author of History of the Organization.

Fred W. Pierce, historian of the Edward H. Monahan post of the American Legion in Sioux City, Ia., received the praise of the Legion's national executive committee for his work as director of the Gold Star ceremonial, a patriotic community tribute to the World war dead, and as author of a history of the Monahan post.

The production was held three days, during which it was witnessed by almost every resident of the city. It symbolized the participation of Sioux City in the World war, paying tribute to the memory of 114 men killed in the war.

Scenes from the war, pageantry, music and addresses of orators carried out an allegory, culminating in a tableaux designed to portray the efforts of the American Legion in honoring the dead.

FRED W. PIERCE

A most impressive feature of the presentation was the escort to the auditorium of a large number of "gold star" mothers and wives of deceased soldiers.

Pierce was the moving spirit in conducting the ceremonial, and in compiling the history, "Sioux City in the World War." A portion of the admission fees to the ceremonial and of profits from sale of the history were devoted to the Legion's fund to provide for the permanent annual decoration of overseas graves.

WON MANY 'VARSITY HONORS

Harry Bolles, Yakima, Wash., Brother of National Adjutant, Now Naval Officer.

Captain and stroke of the 'varsity crew at the United States Naval academy, would be more than enough glory for the average "middy" at Annapolis to aspire to. Add to this three years on the 'varsity crew, three years on the 'varsity football team, and membership on the ' boxing and wrestling squads, and you have quite a record. Add still the Naval academy cup, awarded to the graduate contributing most to the advancement of athletics in the academy during the year, and you have a part of the accomplishments of Harry Bolles, of Yakima, Wash., a brother of Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the American Legion, who has just received his commission as a naval officer from Uncle Sam.

Ensign Bolles is a World war veteran, and a member of the American Legion, having enlisted when seventeen years old at the outbreak of the war. He served for two years as a member of a gun crew on the transport "Great Northern." After the war he obtained his entrance to the Naval academy by passing the hardest sort of competitive examination, where he made good from the start.

FINE KANSAS CITY MEMORIAL

Erection of Splendid Structure to Perpetuate Memory of World War Heroes Now in Progress.

Work of erecting the huge Liberty memorial in Kansas City, Mo., has begun and at least 18 months will be required for completion of construction, according to contractors in charge of the work. The memorial is to take the form of a monumental building and tower to perpetuate the memory of heroes of the World war.

The principal feature of the shrine is the 216-foot stone shaft above the building proper. This towers 350 feet above the Union station plaza and may be seen for miles. At the base of this shaft four sculptured figures representing Courage, Honor, Patriotism and Sacrifice—of heroic proportions, stand as guardians to the "Flame of Inspiration," to burn on the altar atop the towering shaft. These figures are to be designed by Robert I. Aitken, a sculptor of considerable repute, who saw service in the World war.

The edifice itself, to be known as the Memorial and American Legion building, is to be a massive structure of stone and steel, surmounted by the great shaft. The total construction cost is over $1,000,000, which does not include mural paintings, sculpture, lighting, landscaping and other work necessary for completion, all of which are estimated to require at least three-quarters of a million dollars.

Canadian Shrine Draws Throngs for Cures

Situated on the northern slope of Mount Royal, at Montreal, Canada, is St. Joseph's oratory which is second only in fame to St. Anne de Beaupre and with a fast increasing total of miraculous cures is rapidly becoming famous throughout the American continent. As many as forty thousand people have attended open-air services there this summer, and pilgrims are coming from all over the United States and Canada.

Try Cellar in Thunder Storm

Innumerable Superstitions Exist as to What to Do in an Electrical Storm.

Washington, D. C.—Death by lightning is an act of Providence, and the ways of Providence are mysterious and past finding out. Hence the innumerable superstitions as to what to do or what not to do in an electrical storm, to guard one's self against the flaming flashes that carry death and destruction.

Grandmother used to plump herself into the middle of a huge featherbed and cover up her head when the storm god ruled the heavens and threatened the earth, and she deluded herself with the belief that that was the very safest place in the world for her. Perhaps it is true that no one was ever killed by lightning who had taken refuge in a featherbed, but scientists agree that the feathers have nothing to do with the immunity enjoyed by those who repose thereon. So don't feel helpless and hopeless if you are afraid of lightning and haven't a featherbed in the house. No one has in these days of modern mattresses, and the statistics as to deaths by lightning are just about what they used to be.

Lightning Follows Humidity.

Then there's that other idea about putting your hands on a window pane on the theory that glass is a nonconductor.

People who would not stand at an open window, or at an open door, on the theory that a draft is a conductor, will close the window and drape themselves against the glass as the best precaution they can possibly take.

As a matter of fact, the window, open or closed, is decidedly a bad place to be in an electrical storm. The lightning will not follow a draft. It follows the stratum of air having the greatest relative humidity, and there is no evidence that air currents have anything to do with humidity.

But if lightning chances to strike the side of a house or other building, the chances are it will enter the window as the point of least resistance, and the thin sheet of glass will count for nothing in the path of the tremendous force of a thunderbolt. Open doorways, or closed doors, unless they are of steel or extremely thick, are also to be avoided, according to the experts.

Not Likely to Be Hit.

Perhaps the best advice that may be offered those who live in constant fear of lightning is—forget it! If Jove aims a thunderbolt at you, the chances are that he will get you, no matter where you are or what you may be doing to safeguard yourself, but you may find a deal of comfort in the mortality records which show that the odds are about 250,000 to 1 that you will escape the fate you dread. Moreover, it is well to bear in mind that if you are killed by lightning you will never know anything about it, unless you wake up in the hereafter with a good memory for events in the world you have just quitted. You will never see the flash that gets you, nor hear the crash that accompanies it.

Lightning does inexplicable things. Not long ago a man was killed on one of the Washington golf courses by a bolt that came, not out of a clear sky, exactly, but out of one that was not especially threatening or ominous. He was in a flat, open place, and less than 100 yards from him was a tall tree. The best of experts would have advised him not to take refuge under the tree, and that the safest place for him was in the open. And yet if he had been under the tree he would probably have escaped his fate. Or, on the other hand, was it possible for him to escape his fate? That is a question such as theologians and philosophers and scientists ponder over and debate, and, to paraphrase Omar the Tentmaker, evermore come out the same door wherein they went.

Cellar Is Safe Place.

However, the government experts in the weather bureau have studied the caprices and freaks, as well as the fairly regular habits of lightning, and have arrived at certain conclusions that are of value. They believe that there are certain precautions that one may take in an electrical storm that are worth while, even though they carry no guarantees of immunity.

For instance, they tell you that the safest place you can find when such danger threatens, is in a deep, damp cellar, close to the walls, always bearing in mind not to post yourself between the furnace, if there be a furnace there, and any metallic object.

If you are caught out of doors in a storm, remember that the worst place you can find is an isolated tree. You will be safer in the heart of a woods and still more so if you reconcile yourself to a thorough wetting in the open. If you must take refuge under a tree, keep away from an oak, and hunt out a beech, for the records show that the oak is struck 57 times, the fir 39 and the pine 5 times as often as the beech. Next to the beech in safety come the maple and the birch.

Avoid Cows in Thunderstorms.

If you are with a number of people, do not huddle together in a group, for it has been ascertained that larger gatherings of men or beasts offer greater attraction to lightning than do isolated individuals. And if, perchance, you find yourself near a cow, get away from her as quickly as possible, for cows are more often killed by lightning than any other animals—twice as often, in fact. Sheep, horses, pigs and mules come next in the order given as to fatality percentages.

When you are indoors, as the storm comes on, you will do well not to forget the advice as to the deep, damp cellar. But if there isn't a cellar, there are things to avoid. Keep away from open fireplaces and chimneys, for a chimney being the highest part of a house is the path the lightning is most likely to take. Also, keep away from the side of a house that has a wire clothesline attached to the outside of the wall, and don't get yourself between two metallic objects such as an iron sink and radiator, or between either of these and a downspout, for in seeking an outlet to the ground lightning has a tendency to jump between metallic bodies.

Steel Buildings Often Struck.

An especially dangerous place is directly beneath a hanging lamp or an electric light fixture suspended from the ceiling by a chain. Wood, stone, brick and stucco houses are about equal in the safety they afford, since they are all poor conductors. Steel-framed buildings, on the other hand, are the best conductors, and they are not infrequently struck, but the people inside rarely even know it, for the lightning is almost invariably carried quickly and directly into the ground and its force dissipated.

As to the force of lightning, it is estimated that a thousand million volts are required to send a bolt to the earth from the height of a mile, and the flash that kills ranges from 200 feet to a mile in length and is frequently of 50,000 horse power.

Bolts from high storm clouds have been known to penetrate 30 feet into the earth, and when they strike in sandy soil they form glass tubes by melting the sand as they bore in. The National museum in Washington has several of these thunderbolt-made tubes that vary in diameter from a quarter of an inch to three inches.

It is also to be borne in mind that only 50 per cent of the people struck by lightning are killed, so efforts at resuscitation should be begun immediately and not abandoned until a physician pronounces life extinct. The methods to be used are similar to those called for when a person has been rescued from drowning.

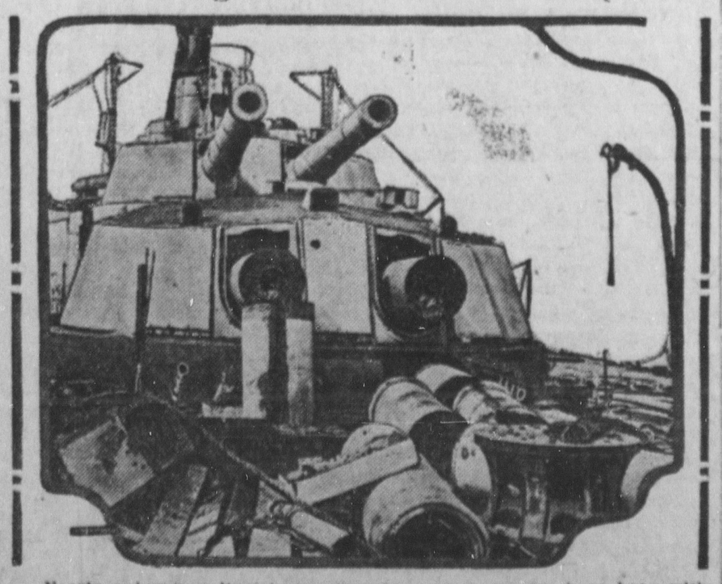
Man and Bear Climb High When They Meet

George Irvin, a farmer living near Bellefonte, Pa., had a bad scare the other day. So did a big bear that George found sitting in his wood-lot.

When George saw the bear, he climbed the highest tree in sight. So did the bear. George yelled for help. The bear "whoofed." A crowd of men arrived. Three dogs set up a yelping at a safe distance.

When the bear saw them he threw caution to the winds. He scrambled to earth, bravely rushed past the barking animals, and made off into the mountains with never a backward glance.

Breaking Up Fine British Ships



Nearly a hundred British dreadnaughts and destroyers have been withdrawn from service and have been sold by auction for breaking up. Included in the most recent auction was H. M. S. The photograph shows some of her fine steel guns being broken up.

Another ÆTNA Check Came This Morning

ISN'T it fine, John! Your eighth week in bed just gone by and we've received two of these checks for $200 each. We can buy that new dining room set now as though nothing had happened.

Every husband ought to take out an ÆTNA DISABILITY POLICY, John. We women are so dependent on what you men do for us—especially when we have children.

Just think—$50 a week as long as you're sick, up to a full year. And at such a trifling cost, too. Oh, John, why will men put off these things until it's too late! We women were never meant to fight hardships that a few cents a day could save us from.
